

Covéa signs the Principles for Responsible Investment supported by the United Nations

In line with its commitments, Covéa announces its signing of the Principles for Responsible Investment (PRI) supported by the United Nations. Covéa thus joins an international network of institutional investors committed to including environmental, social and governance (ESG) issues in investment decisions and active shareholding.

The Principles for Responsible Investment is a global initiative launched by several institutional investors, in partnership with UNEP FI* and the United Nations Global Compact. This initiative aims to create a sustainable financial system by encouraging the adoption of these Principles and the collaboration of the signatories for a common implementation.

By adhering to the PRI, Covéa commits itself to six main principles:

- Take ESG issues into account in the analysis and decision-making process in investment matters.
- Be active investors and consider ESG issues in shareholder policies and practices
- Require entities in which they invest to disclose appropriate information on ESG issues
- Promote the acceptance and application of the Principles among the asset management industry.
- Work together to increase effectiveness in the application of the Principles
- Report individually on activities and progress in the application of the Principles.

For Olivier Le Borgne, Chief Investment Officer of Covéa, "As a socially responsible company, Covéa's commitment to PRI reinforces the integration of the ESG dimension into our investment strategy. We are happy to contribute to this initiative and to work together with a worldwide network of investors on these issues."

PRI CEO Fiona Reynolds said: "We are very pleased to welcome Covéa as a PRI signatory. Covéa joins PRI's more than 3,000 signatories representing over USD 100 trillion in assets under management in recognising the importance of incorporating ESG factors in its investment and ownership decisions. We look forward to working with the team."
